

Emma Longard

is a German recording artist and songwriter, who can be placed somewhere between pop, jazz and blue-eyed soul.

After releasing her debut EP "Elle" in 2013 and the album "A Million Pieces" in 2015, she went on hiatus from the spotlight in 2017 after having played numerous support tours within Germany and burning the candle on both ends.

Fast forward three years to today, Emma has learned a lot about herself, has grown and has developed a new and clear vision for her sound and message.

Now her main focus is to use her music to spread some calm and love in times, where more and more people lose themselves in the loud and busy world on- and offline, like it happened to her. That's how the title and the songs of her new EP "Quieter Pt 1" came to be.

Over the years, Emma has played countless live shows within Germany and also took the stage at festivals like Reeperbahn Festival and beyond the borders of her home country. Waves Vienna and MusExpo in Los Angeles have been a few of her destinations.

While being signed to EMI Publishing/Sony ATV from 2010 to 2017, the creative process of writing and producing her debut record saw her travel to established colleagues in London, Paris, Oslo and LA. Emma sat in sessions with Sasha Skarbek (Miley Cyrus, Lana del Rey), Martin Sjøllie (Sigrid, Maria Mena) and Jimmy Harry (Madonna, Pink), learning what it means to use the short time of a pop-song to the fullest.

For her new material Emma is happy to have partnered with LA based label HRDRV, which follows an innovative, community based concept and gives full control to the artist. On the publishing side, Emma is delighted to have Sentric Music on her side, which is also a company that allows artists to have full insights into their copyright registrations.

Since today's times don't make it easy for artists to publicly perform, Emma is looking to connect with her listeners through live videos, chats and streams. Besides providing new content as often as possible, a second EP is also in sight for summer 2021. It will be called "Quieter Pt 2".
